Attendance:

Presentation by Northeast Florida Regional Council on military projects in the region

Ms. Beth Payne, Chief Executive Officer of the Northeast Florida Regional Council (NEFRC), presented on the Northeast Florida Military Installation Readiness Review (MIRR).

Ms. Payne stated that the purpose of the MIRR is to identify risks, hazards, and vulnerabilities of concern related to the ability of the military to carry out its missions at four regional installations: Camp Blanding Joint Training Center, Marine Corps Support Facility Blount Island, Naval Station Mayport, and Naval Air Station Jacksonville. She noted that the MIRR focuses on mitigation through investments and solutions outside the fence line in the community.

Ms. Payne stated that the MIRR is funded by a grant from the Department of War's Office of Local Defense Community Cooperation (OLDCC) of approximately $1 million, with a match of $113,000 from the NEFRC. Ms. Payne noted that Northeast Florida is the last region in the state to complete a MIRR, and that completing MIRRs has been a priority of the DeSantis Administration to take advantage of available grant funding to protect the military and its mission.

Ms. Payne described the MIRR's two-committee structure. She stated that the Steering Committee meets quarterly and focuses on higher-level policy direction. She stated that the Technical Advisory Committee meets monthly and consists of subject matter experts in areas such as public works, utilities, environment, and conservation, along with local government staff. She stated that 30 to 40 members typically attend virtually and that the Committee provides data and fact-checking. Ms. Payne reviewed progress to date on the eighteen-month project, scheduled to conclude in September 2026. She stated that work to date has included installation tours, installation-specific stakeholder meetings, ongoing committee meetings, and a vulnerability assessment conducted through a military-focused lens.

Ms. Payne stated that the MIRR used the City's vulnerability assessment to examine how identified hazards would affect the regional military installations. She noted that hazard profiles differ across installations: Camp Blanding faces wildfire and conservation issues, while Naval Station Mayport faces erosion and sea level rise. Ms. Payne provided an overview of the definitions of mission-critical assets and threats and hazards used in the MIRR's vulnerability assessment.

Ms. Payne reviewed additional threats and hazards that are policy issues for the City and will not be addressed through Department of War funding. Under personnel stresses, she identified lack of attainable housing, lack of childcare, regulatory requirements, drones (UAVs), and lack of funding for school transportation. Under encroachment, she identified light pollution, land development, airspace congestion, and threatened and endangered species. Ms. Payne reviewed existing Mutual Support Agreements among the regional installations and local governments and presented recommendations to expand and strengthen them. Ms. Payne reviewed the MIRR's approach to developing its project list. She emphasized starting conversations with various partners, such as JEA, given its role in supporting the regional military installations through its infrastructure.

Ms. Payne reviewed the MIRR's next steps, including identifying and recommending Mutual Support Agreements, developing a project priority list with implementation timeline and funding and financing toolkit, issuing a final report, and establishing ongoing partnerships.

CM Pittman asked whether bridges, ships, and major equipment are included in the MIRR's process. Ms. Payne responded that the MIRR has examined the vulnerability of transportation networks at Naval Station Mayport and Marine Corps Support Facility Blount Island, noting that this is a well-studied area given prior work by the TPO and the University of Georgia. She stated that the bridges in those areas are not a significant concern, except operationally during major storms. She stated that the MIRR has also looked at US 17 near Naval Air Station Jacksonville due to traffic concerns. Ms. Payne stated that the Jacksonville Port Authority sits on the Steering Committee, and that conversations have included dredging and keeping port facilities operational. She stated that rail transportation is of equal importance to ships for moving equipment.

CM Johnson stated that, as one of two district Council Members representing a military installation, the City has taken over maintenance of traffic lights throughout Naval Air Station Jacksonville. He asked whether there are future opportunities to explore arrangements that would allow the military to focus on its mission while the City provides municipal services. Ms. Payne responded that those arrangements are part of ongoing conversations.

Chair Lahnen asked whether there was any consideration of including Naval Submarine Base Kings Bay in Georgia in the MIRR, noting that many Jacksonville residents are stationed there and that the Navy refers to the area as the Tri-Base Area. Ms. Payne responded that she believes a MIRR has already been completed for Naval Submarine Base Kings Bay. She stated that, similarly, the MIRR could not cover Coast Guard operations because the Coast Guard falls under the Department of Homeland Security rather than the Department of War, but that the project incorporated some related items where possible. She stated that the project team will review the Kings Bay MIRR to identify any findings applicable to the Northeast Florida MIRR. Ms. Payne stated that once the Northeast Florida MIRR is completed, the final pieces of work are being done for the Pinecastle Range, covering portions of Marion, Putnam, and Lake Counties. She stated that once that work wraps up, a statewide initiative will work with regional councils across Florida to advocate for state funding of high-priority projects.
